

Why Report a Safety Observation?

1. Preventing incidents: Reporting safety observations can help identify potential hazards and prevent incidents from occurring.
2. Improving safety culture: Reporting safety observations can help create a culture of safety where employees feel comfortable reporting safety concerns and taking action to prevent incidents.
3. Compliance: Reporting safety observations is often required by law or company policy to help us keep up with industry standards.
4. Continuous improvement: Reporting safety observations can help identify areas for improvement and lead to the implementation of new safety measures.
5. Protecting employees: Reporting safety observations can help protect employees from harm and ensure that they are working in a safe environment within V.

OBSERVATIONS
Preventing Impacts, Positive Report Type

NEAR MISSES
Potential Impacts, Positive Report Type

INCIDENTS
Actual Impacts, Negative Report Type